

WASHINGTON'S BROWNFIELDS COALITION PARTNER -

Department of Ecology

Washington's Department of Ecology offers many ways to cleanup brownfields sites. Its Toxic Cleanup Program runs most of its brownfields programs. This program cleans up contaminated land and water throughout the state. It does small projects like helping property owners remove contaminated fuel storage tanks. It tackles large, complex projects that require a multi-faceted approach. Check out the following links to see how Ecology can help reclaim Brownfields.

- Toxics Cleanup Program
 - Ecology's Brownfields Webpage
 - Brownfields Integrated Planning Grants
 - Voluntary Cleanup Program
 - Voluntary Cleanup Program Contacts
 - Getting Started with a Voluntary Cleanup
 - Voluntary Cleanup Program Forms
 - Other Cleanup Options

DEPARTMENT OF ECOLOGY'S
WASHINGTON COALITION CONTACT

John Means, Environmental Planner and Program Manager
Phone: 360-407-7188 Email: jmea461@ecy.wa.gov
